No one can predict the future. There are, however, good indications of what may happen based on the past. Events are cyclical. Science is advanced. Our understanding of the earth and her future gets better and better each day.

This book is intended to give an educated representation of what many believe could happen later this year. It is intended to inform and help you understand what can happen. If it helps one family, one person prepare for what many believe is on the horizon, and survive-it has done its purpose.
